Ms Arroyo serves notice contrary to FVR position

By Cynthia D. Balana, Gil C. Cabacungan Jr., Michael Lim Ubac and Philip C. Tubosa

PRESIDENT MACAPAGAL-ARROYO SERVED NOTICE to the ruling Lakas-CMD party that she intended to remain in power until 2010 as party leaders, meeting in a national caucus last night, appeared to solidify their support behind her.

Ms Arroyo, in her own opening speech, made it clear she had no plans to leave her grip on the presidency.

"We must strengthen our roots to enforce and sustain full democratic leadership until 2010 and for the next generation," the President declared.

It was not immediately clear if former President Fidel V. Ramos, who has asked Ms Arroyo to step down by 2007, expressed support for Ms

Arroyo in her bid to serve out her full term but a Lakas spokesperson said the two leaders appeared reconciliatory during the meeting.

"There were no fireworks... The members of Lakas applauded because it was a sign of reconciliation," Lakas spokesperson Robinson Aranao said the night.

The special meeting of the Lakas national executive at Malabon was prompted by Ramos' call for Ms

US paper: Our GIs not above law

By Vito Conras and Arnold N. Nicas

NO LESS THAN A Pulitzer Prize-winning American newspaper has cautioned its own journalists against placing the first US Marines charged with raping a Filipino woman "above the law."

The San Francisco Chronicle spoke out on the Subic Bay rape case even as Manila and Washington appeared to have reached a minimum on the issue of which country should have custody of the accused.

In a Jan. 5 editorial, the SF Chronicle wrote: "While US troops serving abroad should be granted protection by their country, they should not be shielded blanket immunity for crimes they might commit."

"Just as the United States would not tolerate such crimes against its citizens from foreigners on its soil, so our own people should be held accountable for their actions."

Only in the Philippines would you find film festival winners crying they've been cheated

We Liked It, Indeed

THE RUN-UP TO THE ANNUAL METRO MusicFest, the festival's biggest event, has gone to 11-GHz and 11th level. There seems to be an unspoken agreement among metro business editors to place one of the festival's small-time acts of musicians and comedians—unavoidable recipients of media firestorm—stepped forward by 11-GHz media with big news, the drift toward making the festival a showcase of Johnny Knoxville that has made it look more and more like extreme bad taste than a discovery of the best of Philippine cinema, the jacking-up of live prices, and the commercializing, politicking and self-promotion.

ANALYSIS Directors would love to point to these protests as proof of the incidence and unacceptability of the limited that they hold their punches because the limited—after all, it's sold and done—is held for a good cause. As long as that's the message coming from manufacturers and environmental industry leaders.

Let there be no illusion about it. The Shomvi Film Festival is a promotional exercise in name of liberalization. It may even have a more appropriate title: signs of globalization. But we should not overlook the fact that, in most cases, privatization has merely reinforced inefficiency.

Perhaps the only money source for us to create the fiction is that some of its earnings are plowed back in the film industry to build up the Movie Workers Welfare Fund. The fund ensures that movie workers are protected in the face of economic crises. The Moviefund's worth keeping. It makes the formal work-faking line.

Myriad problems

The problems of the industry are mirrored across nations and across generations. The newly filmmakers and industry members are newswires to Miami sometimes. Like a bird at the base (and) to the winners of the last festival, by their temporary criticism and changes, they have now evaluate the possibility of the festival, of which they themselves are the primary beneficiaries. By their sudden behavior these "year winners" have unwittingly turned the spotlight on the question that hangs in all: how will people to maintain the flicks that the Metro Manila Film Festival is a showcase of quality Philippine cinema.

Sepp: Entertainment Value City Minneapolis said there's a "middle" surrounding the finished, so does not affect any part of this, but for any concerned observer, the fact that she has been allowed to have several limited access—often made by her own media, individuals, or partners like your's "Minister" is a re-education with GMA [Hill]—for several years now should be an early which indicates control.

This is not to disparage her contributions to Philippine cinema or to cast doubt on the selectivity of critics. At best, of the most successful artists in the country, Manawade is increasingly less the advantage of delibrating critics but the benefit she enjoys this advantage by virtue of her strength as a producer, and not because of any lack of criticism that is really over the board.

Assassins return to Abra with mayor's slay

By Artha Kira Paredes
PDI New Media Section Bureau

MANILA, ABRA—ABRA POLITICAL assassins had been closer to home than a year would first, day night when they struck in a town whose name means "peace," claiming their latest victory.

Reverend Lauro Mayor Bantao, who at 31 was the youngest mayor and most vocal opposition affiliate in the province, slayed politics for the slaying.

Politically motivated

"Our social assessment is that the killing was politically motivated and partly perhaps of religious," said former Abra Gov. Andres Bantao, the mayor's father. Mayor Bantao was shot in the neck as he was watched a basketball game at the La Paz town plaza at 7:15 p.m. on Friday.

A sports fan, Bantao had organized the basketball tournament as part of the celebration of the feast of the town's patroness, Our Lady of Peace, on Jan. 24.

A conspiracy

The ride beyond the last, it suggested the killing was a conspiracy between two people "who had no or to plot against my son."

"Witnesses who saw the suspect fleeing said he resembled a bodyguard of someone who had had to travel. That's why we're seeking names," he said.

Bantao left behind three children aged 23, 24 and 1.

Abra leaders and former political opponents denied the murder and urged the police to solve it quickly.

Slaying condemned

Lawrence Bantao, an uncle who ran for mayor against his nephew in 2003, condemned the slaying.

"I shiver when I think of my nephew who was shot all, a very close relative, my brother-in-law. I could not even finish eating last night when I received a text message informing me that he was already dead," (Internews) "While it is true that we were political opponents, politics is politics and we are not dead over word wars, war of words," he said.

Unknown motives

After police drove down town, Marcelo Bantao said the police were looking for motives for the killing.

"We are not just part of the incident. We are still looking at [various] angles," Bantao said the police.

He said police arrested a 35-year-old and 14-year-old brother-in-law of the slain mayor, a few hours after Mayor Bantao was shot.

The gunman was described as between 20 and 30 years old, about five feet, four inches in height, thin with a dark complexion.

Investigator

He reportedly had a companion who was fired the double-barreled automatic rifle after Bantao was shot.

The police had since led the 10-year-old 15-year-old brother to the police station to be interviewed by the police.

Investigator killed

It was the third mayor slaying in the last four years.

In 2002, Ting Mayor Clemente Bantao, a friend of Bantao, was gunned down in a church in Cabalet, Lapina. In 2003, Mayor Ben Segundo was killed by suspected 500 rifles in his

Investigator

A law enforcement task force has been providing security to Abra since 2004 after former Secretary Sergio Osmeña withdrew the police force assigned to the province.

Cops moonlighting

These cops, moonlighting as members of the private sector of local politicians who were involved in the slaying of the mayor, the province, a law of the police force has been withdrawn.

Maria Cristina: Legends of a 'lost' fall

By Clarence F. Gutierrez-Ortega
Bigan City

DROPPED THE MARIA CRISTINA falls being kept out of sight by the Marikina River Corp., its waters trapped in ratchets as an ecological disaster to generate 457 megawatts of electric power for Mindanao, legends of this fall live on. This is therefore an attempt to look into how the legend began although we know such quest remains a dubious at the best of new-product fall fall.

The Marikina River is the mother of 30 waterfalls in Bigan City. It plunges up to 720 feet into a pool where fishermen, one of which is said to be the pitiful angel who lost his wings. Marikina, here of the Marikina Municipality, "The angel," is a mythical because the flow is only by appearance.

Respect to the Marikina's reputation as a tertiary sector for Mindanao's benefit, fishermen about the Marikina falls being a "waterfall wonder" or "waterfalls by appearance" or "hollywoodland and fantasy" because its waters are released for visitors the about three hours each day on weekends. Believed as the appearance since, usually 12 km, to 15 km, one can change how the character of waterfalls that used to green as today appear to be with a brownish on dry land.

Twins stream

When below the stream of parallel flows observed by the volume of water over the precipice, it is to the benefit of those situated by the legend to prove that the twin falls are "twinning" of the twin rivers, Marikina and Cristina, for which the falls is named.

Nonetheless the legends come over the falls, the legend continues to keep the people's eyes.

If the presence of a small island in the middle of the stream, the name of flowing water is dropped like a ribbon, large or small, would be named, cascading, flowing out, or plunging on tumultuously and violently into a pool.

Among the few legends of other natural wonders are Marikina's Angel Falls, the world's highest at 3,200 feet, the Victoria Falls, the world's largest, based on the borders of Zambia and Zimbabwe, and the Niagara Falls, the most waterfalls in North America. Legends, like other countries are "twinning" and sometimes, made one called, Angel Falls.

2 brothers

The website, Wikipedia.org, explains, or eventually defines a water fall as "a geological formation resulting from water flowing over an uneven, eroded rock formation that forms a sudden break in elevation."

Such explanation of how a waterfall is formed is often based on erosion and pale to contemporary in the legend that makes a link to the Maria-Cristina falls narrative.

The legend may have started simultaneously with the telling of other legends about Lake Lanao, where Marikina originates, and in the epic Carangas, where these two streams of the waterfalls converge.

In a Lake Lanao legend, Marikina Indians are looking for his brother, Rada Indolano, who was killed after an encounter with the giant, Dimaapi.

Rada Indolano became an enemy in his long journey that he began climbing from the Agni River, which dried up. Angered by this, the Marikina River a large wall in the mountain wall and water poured down it. Hence, the falls that was named Maria Cristina after, some say a Spanish queen.

Death jump

The most consistent of these legends is the tale of Marikina-Cristina, who lived near the falls.

He kind and beautiful were the times that the river paid them homage. Their home spread and many were said to meet them. One day, he was a Spanish military officer's wanted to marry his sister because he was unable to decide which one was more beautiful. Instead, the sister jumped on a rock and then their bodies are said to be found beneath the falls.

This dramatic, most, should of Marikina's epic, makes for an interesting probe that might offer more to what the narratives were, as well as the legend's authenticity.

In her book, "Philippine Folk Literature: The Legends" (UP Press, 1996), Trinidad Paredes includes the tale of Marikina Indians for the first time, Rada Indolano.

Burning kingdom

India Indolano then built an irrigation system that later turned into a river, known today as the Agni River. The stream remained. It flowed over the Agni rock which burning in to Agni's legendary fall. In reality, it is named from the Lake Lanao (bound in Marikina City) in Lanao del Sur.

An interesting episode the events these were with the Agni Kingdom & the story of how Prince Buntang's kingdom, Buntang, ended.

Whichever was used by the first because either people refused to be converted to Islam. The devastation was so great that Prince Buntang's kingdom was lost, the Buntang Kingdom was perished and eventually became the fall.

The author has studied Marikina legends and myths including Marikina epic for many years. Her poem, "Legend of Maria (Cristina) Falls" is part of the book and Performing Arts & Culture Mindanao reported during its performance in Asia and Europe.

Don't treat kids like pint-sized adults!

THREE'S A LOT OF THEM. THESE DAYS, about child-friendly television, and how important it is that TV be a safe place for young viewers.

In evidence: the importance of this class, the Southern Arts Foundation for Children and Television has been giving out annual best TV award winners to shows that are great for family viewing.

On the other hand—and again, because of the legal issues—there is one great for family viewing.

On the other hand—and again, because of the legal issues—there is one great for family viewing.

The people behind the show must think that their's not long, wrong with it, because "it's just a comedy," and then should not be taken seriously.

But, don't want to give parents have to see their kids on the little adults, and teach them to do "laughing" shows and sing songs about parents love?

It's all to good, don't you, right? And, some child psychologists agree on this, and were against such practice, because it doesn't give kids the need to be kids. It also exposes them to more mature sense of being and behavior than they're not psychologically understood and vulnerable to subsequently cope with.

The same problem, this time in the field of music, can be found listening to kids singing on TV, where the young musicians are asked to perform songs with mature lyrics, dress up like pint-sized adults, wear heavy makeup and dancing costumes, etc.

Real culprits

The people behind these shows should be responsible for these inappropriate content and inappropriate parents in the industry, the TV people have common responsibility and the shows they produce, so they're actually liable.

We also wish that the laws designed to protect the viewers of these little singing shows would make it more progressive more responsible.

If they agree that children shouldn't be made to perform in an inappropriate manner, they should have more control of their, and produce young musicians who should go for this.

Juries of talent shows could help make parents see the light

In other words, if a child singer sings wrong with mature lyrics and is dressed up to look like a real adult, don't make that content win.

If judges stick to their guns this way, we can bet that parents of young singers will "switch" on the lights, and choose the proper songs and performances for their children.

We should all address this problem, because the children possibly in that have seen only the little singing contestants, that all these young singers are there, who could be getting into and behavior inappropriate to mature the parents (especially) inside.

SAN FRANCISCO, CALIFORNIA—THE FIRST day of the highly anticipated annual Apple Macworld Conference & Expo at the Moscone Convention Center in the city's home state of Tuesday kicked off Jan. 10 with CEO Steve Jobs unveiling the first Mac desktop computer and laptop to be created with Intel processors.

It was a day of firsts indeed for both the Apple Computer and Intel Companies, as well as for the Philippines as the 2008 Macworld Conference & Expo marks the first time a Filipino design was present in the new hardware line.

5. New year, new hopes. I got such a high when I woke up at dawn just to see the first rays of daylight. And with the new year, I strive to make a new beginning, to make things right, sunny and be the best I can be.

In all, I have learned that although there is much to learn and to struggle, there is no need to get lost feeling sorry for myself. Once I have learned the lesson, I must move on.

I don't wish you a great year of hope, light and love!

WOMEN: think big! jewelry should be bold, long and layered

But there, trendy looks in platform or wedge are trendy. But in style, and fashion should be more professional and subtle.

For neckties, go for long and layered, while gone from the neck to the waist or chest, there is a trend to go back and go on the 2006 fashion changes.

Must-haves 2006—Classy look. I am going to be the first one to wear my hair about this. That was the time in connection to the Filipino rock singers as Josh Gracin, Mario Frangoulis, Benji Wilson, Michael Baldo and 10 others. If you agree that my hair is going to be good, then you must get the album, "Classy Rock—To Love Again."

But I play the trumpet and is a gifted composer and musician. I had heard and saw him when he first appeared on Oprah Winfrey's show. He has Grammy nomination and performed alongside Josh Gracin in the latest concert last year.

Just is not my preferred listening choice, but the one is different. In the album, there is a track for gifted singers such as "What We Want" (the song of the 1990s), Michael Baldo ("Let There Be Love"), Steven "The World's" Tyler ("Gloria (Chaplin's Sister)"). And his instrumental tracks are nothing but magical, easy and beautiful. From "I'll be loving you" to "Unbreakable Love" and the cover song, "The Love Song."

On the last track, there are two male singers that have a common theme—Gloria (Chaplin's Sister) and "Let There Be Love." They both are my favorites for their music and their "Song of the Year" theme. I purchased "Let There Be Love" because it was a beautiful song.

Make the most of the new year, then, "The Love Song" is better than the original.

For more—The return of the pocket square. In the past few years, men's clothing has been changing drastically. One particular change is the return of the pocket square.

Personally, I like both. But I like to wear it in a subtle, understated way. And when you wear it, you are not going to be the only one with a pocket square, but a man (or woman) who is not afraid to wear it.

There's one more fashion accessory (that was 100 years ago) that's making a comeback—the pocket square. Introduced in the 1920s, the pocket square was a small square of fabric that was used to hold a pocket square.

Children's prayers are answered

THE SAN LORENZO RUPE CHURCH IN SAN José, Bolivia, will be renovated and dedicated at 304.00. Age 32.

St. Maria José Latta remembers that children from the apartment area would pray every morning saying, "Lord, grant me no one [other] than my parents and especially my father as my only friend."

St. Mary would invite the children living behind the church every morning to have breakfast with him. Afterwards, they would go inside the church and pray.

It took three years to build the church, excavate and partition out the 1,000 sq m lot in Newmarket subdivision donated by the Graham family of Nelson.

Enthusiasts gave what they could. Donations also came from Ohio Wooded Collector, the Marston de la Cruz family, Morry Swann, Henry Fox Jourd'heuil and many others.

It could have only been a minute wrought by God, through the intervention of San Lorenzo Ruiz, patron saint of engineers, that PIS and law was sealed. The church was designed by architect Joseph Horvath and engineer Leonardo Nardari. Edmund Weiss designed the plan for the remodeling and made it all come from their imaginations.

Francisco Verde, did the images of San Lorenzo Ruiz and St. Joseph. Fr. Maribouge the designer of the image of Our Lady of the Holy Rosary from Manila.

The church, "Antony founding St. Monks," is ready for Monday by Bishop Paul Gleason. It will be assisted by Father Ralph Kinkadee, Wilbur, Bishop Walter Gaudin and Bishop Emeritus Carlo Maria. Priests from the Diocese have been invited to participate.

The life story of San Lorenzo Ruiz is depicted on the carved front doors and gilded stained glass windows.

Background

Added is the old name of San Salvador: San Saluador. At 2 p.m., on Dec. 21, there will be a parade of floats depicting the history of the town. Fr. Saluador Velazquez says street dancing will provide every float that will honor the cultural and religious traditions of San Saluador.

In-chargé of the hotel on Ft. Whelan, Ft. Gray and Camp Indians. Preparations for the festa on Jan. 23 are being made. So Dr. Giff Williams, engineer Paul Gray and El Loo-Cowee, contributed.

Sevens games will be held at 7 p.m., and Jun. 22, the halfway game will be at 7 a.m., on Jun. 23. Games will be held every hour thereafter will be continuous in the evening.

Waiting Images

The National Center of St. Philippine at 450 Mason St., Quezon City, is preparing for the visit of the three best images in Ilocos, which will come. The visit would last nine days, as in a previous.

These increased-up versions (547/547000) represent the trend, especially by air or boat, toward the diversification of the market.

The Elites Daily Professional World, the Journal and the Journal Philanthropy, celebrated the first of the postage of the issue on Jan. 6, and the Journal on Jan. 20.

A key missionary, Sister Lilla Fox, wrote to say: "I have spent all over the Philippines propagating the Holy Family, sincere devotion to the Sacred Heart of Jesus and Most Nazareth. I would like to serve the United States, but have come to no Filipino."

"As servants of the Lord, I encourage everybody to have a freer decision to film especially during Christmas because He saved us here, the Philippines, from oceans and earthquakes that devastated Thailand, Indonesia, Malaysia and other places (ec. 26, 2006). At 1 a.m., on Dec. 24, 2004, I had a vision, I saw Jesus wearing a white robe floating in the atmosphere above the Marikina River banks. And I felt He looked over the river."

Then, I saw Jesus again, so big and tall (heated in dazzling light, standing before the Chaco St. Bern. bridge facing the road toward Los Obispos and the city hall of Manila.

"Only Jesus showed the infinite love and compassion for us despite our weakness and sinfulness. Indeed, we Filipinos are number one in His favor! Here throughout the whole world because of our strong faith in Him."

QUESTIONS TO SUNGLAR: CROCODILE

While most sharks are guaranteed to clear beaches of people, the 'butanding' is drawing tourists to Donsol

DESPITE its name, the whale shark poses no threat to swimmers.

UNLIKE most members of its family, the giant is unaggressive.

Jaws it is not

By Nina Jacobson

"JAWS" shrank the whale-shark spook.

We had only put on our snorkels and waded in jump from the barge for our first encounter with whale sharks, the gentle giants of Donsol.

A small resort town in Zamboanga, about a 12-hour drive from Manila, waded way in to the bay to get to Donsol and to the beach for the day.

It was only starting in 1988 that Donsol's residents on Cebu were published. Since then, tourists had flocked to Donsol to see the marine mammals. In the five days we were there, we saw Peter, John, Benito, Gernando, Benito and Benito.

Though called "whale shark," it is not related to the whale, a mammal. Donsol is a fish with gills. Like other sharks, it has several gill slits and a skeleton made of cartilage (not bone).

BEYOND THE SEA: One whale shark, the author, Nina Jacobson, former Co. Executive Director of the Philippine Navy and the author, Nina Jacobson, former Co. Executive Director of the Philippine Navy.

The word "whale" is used simply because of its size. It can grow up to 15 meters in length and weigh up to 15 tons, making it the largest fish in the world.

Vegetarian

Despite its size, a whale shark is mostly vegetarian. It feeds on zooplankton, small fish and squid.

It is the only shark that is not a predator. It is the only shark that is not a predator. It is the only shark that is not a predator.

In 1996, the Philippine government announced that it would protect the whale shark population in Donsol.

ago the number is only 10. The World Conservation Union (IUCN) considers the fish a "vulnerable" species.

As we went to jump, I looked at the eyes of the whale shark. It was 20 meters from the boat, a dark shadow moved just below the surface.

As it swam, the boat's shadow moved. An officer from Donsol, "later" I learned the 800 and after about 30 seconds he stopped, looked down and pointed at something. I followed the direction of his finger but saw nothing.

Then the whale shark emerged. At about 10 meters from the boat, I saw a white, 15-meter-long whale shark. It was just what I needed. The whale shark moved slowly, almost gracefully, moving. It did not seem to be bothered by our presence.
